BLAME FAMILY TROUBLE

Shooting Results as Bellville Wife Seeks Safety at Home of Relatives In City.

A domestic quarrel was believed today by police to have led to the shooting of Henry Barr, 32, of 207 East First street, a Westinghouse employe, shortly before 1 a. m. today at his home. He is in General hospital with a serious wound in his left arm near the shoulder.

Held in the city jail in connection with the shooting is Ralph W. Fletcher, 38, Bellville, R. D. 1, who was treated at General hospital for a head wound inflicted after the shooting, according to Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

Witnesses told police that Barr and Fletcher were scuffling in the front yard after the shot was fired through the front door and that Barr took the shotgun away from Fletcher and struck him over the head with it.

Police said Mrs. Fletcher told them her husband had threatened her life yesterday afternoon at their home near Bellville and she had come to Mansfield to spend the night at the home of the Barrs, her uncle and aunt.

Mrs. Fletcher said her husband apparently came to Mansfield after her and fired the shot through the front door at the Barr home when Barr went to the door to tell Fletcher to be quiet. Mrs. Fletcher said she and two of the couple's children were in bed at the Barr home when the shot was fired. She said Fletcher had been drinking.

Police found pieces of the 12-

War Industry Center Blasted For 117th Time

U. S. Bombers Hit Leghorn, Damage Installations, Naval Craft.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—One hundred Flying Fortresses flying roundtrip more than 1,100 miles smashed the northern Italian port of Leghorn with several hundred tons of bombs yesterday, damaging a light cruiser and four supply ships and creating havoc in oil tanks, railway yards and industrial plants.

The four-engined bombers hammered at the city for nine concentrated minutes, and returned home without loss, Allied headquarters announced.

They created such ruin that an official report said, "five hours after the raid the entire port was still so heavily covered by smoke that accurate inspection of the damage was then impossible."

"Later, however," the report stated, "it was learned that all the storage tanks and an oil refinery were ablaze and that an inner 'inactive' light cruiser and four supply ships in the harbor were damaged. Little opposition was encountered and all the Fortresses returned safely."

(The Italians admitted "very great" damage at Leghorn and said 175 persons were killed and 300 injured.)

Meanwhile American medium bombers and fighters concentrated on airfields in Sardinia, setting buildings ablaze and pounding dispersal areas, and RAF Wellingtons raided San Giovanni near the toe of the Italian mainland.

Fighter-bombers flying out of Malta scored hits on two factories and a railway at Licata, Sicily, a British communique said, and other planes started a fire at Comiso airdrome.

Hamburg Also Hit By British In Two-Bladed Attack.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — The RAF returned in great strength last night to Cologne where 1,000 bombers had blasted 300 acres of destruction in May, 1942, and laid the pattern for the city-by-city razing of German war industry.

In a double-bladed attack, British heavy bombers also struck overnight at Hamburg, submarine building center, and continued the minelaying that official sources announced yesterday had caused the sinking of at least 400 Axis vessels since the war started.

Twenty-five bombers were listed as missing.

Thundering over the scene of the world's first 1,000-bomber raid for the 117th time, the RAF left fires leaping up toward the overhanging clouds.

The German high command called the Cologne attack "another serious terror raid against residential quarters."

The German communiques asserted that "the Cologne cathedral suffered heavy damage from explosive and incendiary bombs" and that Cologne's population "suffered losses."

It was the second raid of the month against the great Rhineland industrial center which the Nazis have been reported working avidly to restore. The 1,000-bomber raid was reported to have driven out 200,000 of the city's 800,000 population and wrecked 250 factories.

The German communique reported property damage in both Cologne and Hamburg and said 26 of the attacking bombers were shot down. Thickly populated parts of Cologne were said to have been destroyed as a result of a great number of explosive and incendiary bombs.

OMEN: Stepped-Up Attacks On Japs Presage New Offensive

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Six more smashing aerial attacks were made against Japanese installations on Kiska island in the Aleutians Sunday, the navy reported today, and yesterday army planes followed up with a raid against that island and nearby Little Kiska.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Japanese land and sea forces are being slammed with a mounting fury that may well mark the opening phases of a new campaign to drive the enemy farther back in the Pacific.

This became apparent today in the wake of the navy's two latest reports, listing 13 U. S. bomber raids throughout the Pacific and the destruction or damaging of 11 Japanese surface craft by American submarines.

From Kiska to the Solomons Americans sent their bombs crashing onto Japanese air, sea and supply bases.

The raids came at almost the same time submarine commanders reported sinking six Japanese supply craft, damaging three others and sending a destroyer and mine layer to the bottom during battle cruises in the "Pacific and Far East." These sinkings brought the totals for Pacific submarine action to 269 Japanese vessels—190 sunk, 29 probably sunk and 50 damaged.

Kiska shuddered under the heaviest raids in weeks. Eight fires were left blazing on Kiska after the 16th raid in the three days ending Saturday.

Some of the cargo, transport and supply vessels bagged by American submarines could have

RESCUE: Fortress Stands Off Nazis To Save Comrades

By DIXIE TIGHE
(INS Staff Correspondent)

AN AMERICAN FLYING FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND—Nazi fighter craft which pursued American Flying Fortresses returning from the latest raid on the U-boat base of St. Nazaire were denied a triumph over the gallant crew of a disabled Fort when one of the Yankee craft turned about and gave battle long enough for those aboard the damaged ship to take to their dinghies, officials at this bomber command station revealed today.

The same Boeing Fortress which enabled the distressed crew to ditch the menacing Nazi planes came upon a second disabled B-17 already down on the water and tossed its members an additional life raft.

The Fortress which turned back to thwart the Nazi fighters was piloted by Lieut. Richard Weitzenfeld of Chicago, who just recently brought his ship home safely from another raid after its stabilizer had been blasted by enemy bombs.

The nine-man crew of Weitzenfeld's Fort hovered over the crippled companion ship for 35 minutes, fighting a gruelling 13-minute battle with two Nazi pursuit craft to give their fellow fliers an opportunity to get away.

Although there was no immediate official word it is believed probable that the crews of the two damaged Forts later were picked up by patrol boats customarily sent out at the conclusion of cross-channel raids to pick up downed airmen.

For Lieut. Shannon Jackson of Columbus, O., and New York, yesterday's attack on St. Nazaire was his final combat mission—and for a while Jackson thought he'd never make it.

Jackson's ship was the first to return to this base after the raid, and the rather bumpy landing was characteristic of a number of dis-

CHAPTER XI

The door opened and in stepped naval officer. He came to attention and saluted. "Ensign O'eilly reporting with eight men nd a truckload of ammunition, r!"

"M'm? Ouch!" said Captain Elder, as the iodine bit into a fresh oot. He looked up sourly. "Well, t down, Mr. —er O'Reilly! Don't and there like a bloody Nazi orm trooper! I'll thank you to rget all that Annapolis nonnse, while you're aboard my ip!"

"Thank you, sir!" said the engn, settling himself in a chair nd watching the captain comete his first aid measures with understanding, even an expert, re. "Say!" he grinned, "From e look of your knuckles, sir, hoever it was you socked must ave pretty sharp teeth!"

"Well, he's got fewer of 'em ow!" growled the captain. "But me! What's all this about eight en? And a truckload of ammution, didn't you say?"

"Yes sir. The men are the regar gun crew. The ammunition's r the guns. Shells for the fourch stern-chaser and loaded belts r the .50 calibers. You see, popns like . . ."

"—EH? —DON'T CALL ME . . . er, er, I beg your pardon! es, yes, go on!"

"Er—well, I was about to say, pguns like those up there bend the bridge eat up thousands rounds per minute. But if ou'll let me have the keys to e magazine, sir, I'll have my en bring it all aboard and ow it."

"Yes, all right, but . . . but st a minute!" Elder sat back nd surveyed Ensign O'Reilly rrowly. He was, he saw, a good t older than most ensigns he ad met, also, he had about him e air of a man who has roughed in tough places. Obviously, he as not one to stand for any chidg, riding or nonsense.

"Look, Mister!" he said, "As ng as you and I have got to be gether on board this ship, the oner we understand each other, e better Now a minute ago you ard me mention Annapolis—ention it, may I remind you, in sneering and derogatory man-r. I suppose you resent it Well, you do resent it, you can take ur resentment and . . . and ick it up your nostril!"

"Resent it?" Ensign O'Reilly rew back his head and laughed. Why should I resent it? Maybe don't share your opinion of Anapolis, but that's no reason I ould get red-headed about it!"

"Oh!" Captain Elder's estimaon of the young man fell "Oh, see!" His lips curled slightly So you'll let somebody sneer at ur—alma mater, I believe you ill it, and—and let him get away ith it, eh?"

"Alma mater, hell! The naval cademy's not my alma mater! went to Notre Dame! I'm a Reerve officer!"

"Oh-h-h!" The disdain vanished om Elder's face and left it reathed in smiles. "Oh! Well, ow, that's different! You see, I appen to be acquainted with a aval academy graduate by the ame of Howard Rockwell and—"

"What?" Ensign O'Reilly prang to his feet as though stung. Howard Rockwell?" His slightly er-sized jaw protruded like the ram of an ice-breaker. "Why, just let me catch up with Howard Rockwell, and I'll—I'll—I'll . . ." Words failed him, but the two pile-driver blows which he delivered at the empty air were more eloquent than the entire contents of the dictionary.

Captain Elder stirred and raised his eyebrows questioningly.

"Yes, Howard Rockwell!" the other continued, vibrantly. "Romping Rocker Rockwell! Well, he sure went romping over me, when I tried to intercept that forward pass in the '7 game! He stove in four ribs and my collarbone and put me out for the season! Just let me catch up with . . . with . . . But shucks!" Suddenly he tossed his head and laughed embarrassedly, "I hope you'll excuse me for bursting out this way, sir!"

"M'mph? Well, all right, Mr. O'Reilly—I'm not interested in your personal feuds! Just get that ammunition stowed and I'll see that your quarters are ready for you."

When the ensign had gone, Captain Elder leaned back in his chair and scowled up at the deckhead Evidently, he was the prey of conflicting emotions.

"Lick Howard Rockwell? Him? Hunh—I'd like to see him try it! Still, maybe he could! Boy, it would make a pretty good scrap, all right! And after all, what would I care who won? It'd be Navy versus Navy, and if they knocked each other's block off, so much the merrier! But no! Howard's Adelaide's husband! Howard's my son-in-law! Why, this fellow couldn't possibly lick him! But still . . . but still . . ."

Muttering to himself and shaking his head, Captain Elder plastered a strip of gauze on his knuckles and rejoined Mr Rossi on the bridge.

New York became a smoke smudge, Long Island a low gray cloud; then they vanished below the horizon, and the S. S Merchant Mariner was alone in her element.

"What's she doing?"

"Fourteen knots, sir!"

Captain Elder strolled to the chart room and joined Mr Rossi and Mr Blair, the second mate beside the table The latter was busy with dividers and parallel rules

"M'mph! Halifax!" Elder grunted "Why in hell are they sending us to Halifax?" The question was purely rhetorical, he knew the answer only too well. But Mr Blair, who was an earnest young man, felt himself called upon to answer.

"Why, I s'pose we're going to Halifax to join a convoy, sir! They always . . ."

"Well, don't you think I know it? But what've we got to join a convoy for, hunh? Haven't we got all these guns and navy nuisances aboard so's we can defend ourselves? If we can defend ourselves, what's the sense of joining a convoy? And if we can't, what's the sense of the guns?"

He walked out into the wing of the bridge and scowled aft. He saw two bluejackets standing watch by the anti-aircraft guns while others, similrly alert, were at their stations around the stern-chaser. Ensign O'Reilly, on the gun platform, appeared to be giving instructions to a group of the vessel's civilian crew who were standing below.

"He asked me for seven men to handle ammunition up from the magazine," Mr. Rossi explained, joining Elder. "Looks like he's going to put 'em through a practice drill or something."

As they watched, O'Reilly posted several of the men at intervals along the deck and dispatched the others below Then he consulted his wristwatch and barked an order into the telephone. In an unbelievably short space of time, a man dashed out of the tween-decks with a long, slim brass-and-steel cartridge in his arms He ran aft with it to the next man (it was Stanislawski) who snatched it from him as though it were the baton in a relay race. "Rush order for a gentleman in a hurry!" he shouted. "Make it snappy!" With a mighty heave, he tossed the shell through the air to the last man in the line. The weight of the missile brought the fellow to his knees but somehow he prevented it from striking the deck. "Okay! One rush order coming up!" he called, passing the shell to the platform.

RAPID CITY, S. D. —(INS)—The U. S. Army Air corps' great reliance on youth is reflected in the recent appointment of Major Ellis E. Eno, commanding officer at the Rapid City air base, one of the largest tactical posts in the Second air force.

At 31, Major Eno is believed to be the youngest commander of any post the size of the Rapid City base within continental United States.

Several years of civilian and military experience in aeronautics combined to prepare the major for the job.

He formerly was base executive officer and plans and training officer at Wendover Field, Utah. He received his civilian pilot's license when he was 16.

TWO KILLED IN AREA MISHAPS

Railroader Dies When Hit By Train at Shelby; Boy Victim In Willard Mishap

driver of the truck told them the Fries boy was riding along the highway and suddenly swerved into the path of the vehicle which was approaching from the opposite direction.

Huron County Coroner J. D. Bradish of New London, said the boy suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries.

The boy's body was removed to the Secor funeral home in Willard where funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be at Centerton.

Brownfield's body was removed to the Dye funeral home to be sent later to Newark for funeral services and burial.

Uncover Relics Of Man In Iraq 8,000 Years Ago

BAGHDAD —(UP)— Eight thousand years before Hitler shook the world with his battle cry, the first human beings in Iraq pitched their tents beside camp fires at Tel Hassouna, southwest of Mosul, government archaeologists excavating in the area have discovered.

The first men to come into this ancient land were herdsmen and probably came from Anatolia and the Caucasus. This new discovery goes back several centuries before the earliest relics found in Egupt and forms a new link with the stone age settlement found at Mersin, Turkey.

Thus alongside contributions to the Allied war effort, Iraq today places on record a signal contribution to the history of man. The project was worked on by University of Pennsylvania archaeologists until 1938.

Fuad Safar of the department of antiquities came on the discovery when he found debris that established a human encampment and a profusion of animal bones—the majority of which identified as goats. The first settlers were idol worshippers and left behind their goddess of fertility, a miniature image of a clay woman. Graceful and attractively decorated earthenware vessels discovered created a new picture of the earliest phase of pottery art in Iraq. Several undamaged pieces were uncovered—the only ones for that period found complete anywhere in the world.

BRITISH SMASH AT COLOGNE IN 117TH ATTACK

Hamburg Also Hit By RAF Air Offensive Germans Admit Serious Damage.

The official bulletin gave no results of the attack on Hamburg, last hit Mrch 3 and an air target nearly 100 times since the war began.

In secondary night sweeps, fighter command aircraft attacked enemy shipping in the channel, damaging one small supply vessel and two escort craft, the communique said.. At the same time intruder patrols attacked railway targets in France.

Last night's raid was the eighth British assault on German targets in 10 days.

Cologne was the target of the first 1,000-bomber raid on May 30, 1942, when more than 300 acres were devastated in the center of the city straddling the Rhine.

Last night's attack, it was believed, may have delivered almost as great a bombload because the RAF's latest planes carry a greater weight. Also many of the squadrons in last year's attack were medium bombers.

The twin foray by the British bombers followed up a two-way attack yesterday by strong formations of American Flying Fortresses on two enemy targets in occupied France—the submarine yards at St. Nazaire and an enemy fighter airdrome at Beaumont-le-Roger, 30 miles southwest of Rouen.

Such Allied air blows on the French homeland, the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio declared today in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, have made more than 16,000 persons homeless.. The report also said that fatal casualties averaged 15 daily from June 25, 1940 to June 21, 1943.

Berlin asserted that 11 of the American four-engined planes were shot down during yesterday's attack. The U. S. Eighth air force reported six missing.

Nazi Defense Fails To Slow Up Allies

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Last night's RAF attack on Cologne blasted German hopes that intensive defensive treasures taken in western Germany might force the Allies to slow up their aerial offensive on the reich.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockhoms Tidningen had reported that after 48 hours without any heavy bombing attacks on Germany, some circles had expressed the hope that "the next few days and weeks will be the same and there'll be a change in the bomb war."

The correspondent said the Germans based their hopes for relaxation on the bombings on stiffer anti-aircraft defenses, stronger fighter forces.

A Berlin dispatch to the Aftonbladet said German sources acknowledged that the Cologne railroad station had been badly damaged.

First reports from Cologne to Berlin, it was stated, said that an unusual number of incendiary bombs were dropped.

Nazis Say They Sank British Cruiser

LONDON—(AP)—The Berlin radio reported today that a German submarine had sunk a British cruiser and torpedoed another vessel in attacks on a Royal Naval squadron in the Mediterranean.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters, was without confirmation from any Allied sources.

Earlier a Reuters dispatch from Lisbon quoted Portuguese sources as saying German planes had attacked a southbound British convoy off the southwestern tip of Portugal and sunk two vessels. This report also was unconfirmed here.

French Report Says Nazis May Give Up

LONON—(INS)—Possibility of a German surrender even before Allied invasion of Europe was reported by the Independent French News agency in a dispatch from Istanbul today.

The dispatch quoted a traveler from Germany as saying:

"Discouragement has become so great that people are beginning to think of the possibility Germany may lay down her arms before an Allied landing occurs under the pressure of bombs alone."

Ruhr Now 'Sea of Flames,' Report

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — The newspaper Goetseborgs Posten today carried a dispatch reporting that industrial Ruhr valley of Germany has been virtually destroyed as a result of the current Allied bombing offensive.

"The Ruhr is one sea of flame," said the dispatch.

"German's arsenal has been pulverized.

"All life has been hammered out of it."

Pastors Leaving Mansfield

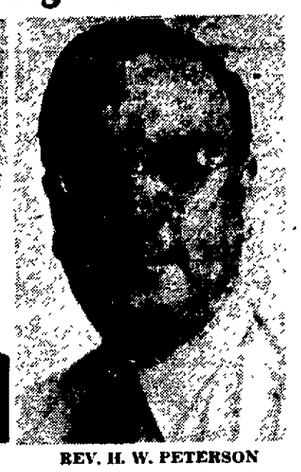
REV. E. G. CORWIN



REV. H. W. PETERSON

REV. R. L. FOULKE

Three Mansfield ministers, shown above, have been assigned to pastorates in other Ohio cities. Rev. H. W. Peterson, superintendent of Mansfield district of Methodist churches for the past six years, will assume the pastorate of Calvary Methodist church, Steubenville. He will be succeeded as superintendent by Rev. John Green, pastor of First Methodist church, Tarea. Rev. E. G. Corwin, Mansfield pastor eight years, will leave next week for Wooster where he will become pastor of First Methodist church. Rev. S. Lee White, Gay Street Methodist church, Mt. Vernon, will be the new pastor at First church here. Rev. R. L. Foulke, culminates four years' work at Central Methodist church here when he accepts the pastorate of First Methodist church, Urichsville. He will be succeeded by Rev. Frank Stewart, now at Youngstown.

CAUGHT WITH GOODS

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—A rabbit-killing cat squeezed between the bars of a rabbit hutch belonging to Mrs. Nellie Licon and ate one of the latter's choicest pets. When it had finished, however, its stomach was distended so much that it could not squeeze out again and the police were able to capture the culprit on the scene of its crime with the stolen goods on him—or rather in him.

ern university and Boston School of Theology. He is married and is the father of four children.

Rev. Corwin came to Mansfield from Mt. Gilead. Before his pastorate in Mt. Gilead, he served at Howard and Savanah. He was recently awarded an honorary degree of doctor of divinity by Ohio Northern university.

Rev. Foulke leaves Central Methodist church after four years of service to assume the pastorate of First Methodist church in Uhrichsville.

Rev. Foulke same here from Grace church, Akron, and before that was pastor of churches in Cambridge and Youngstown.

His pastorate here will be filled by Rev. Frank Stewart, Youngstown.

Other changes in the Mansfield area were: Rev. B. S. Hoppes, new pastor of Holmes county parish; Rev. F. L. Mitzel, new pastor of Killbuck Methodist church; Rev. J. H. Palmer, new pastor of Pleasant Valley Methodist church; Rev. C. H. Roe, new pastor of Shreve Methodist.

Rev. L. E. Rush, pastor of Mt. Gilead Methodist church, was named an alternate delegate to the 1944 juridictional conference in St. Louis.

Highlight of the conference's final day business session was the shelving of a resolution proposing rejection of the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill.

The resolution was presented by Dr. David Lamb, Cleveland, who claimed it is undemocratic, discriminating, and aimed at labor which is contributing greatly to the war effort. Conference members decided they had not studied the bill well enough to act upon it.

HORSE MEAT LAWS PASS

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U.P.)—The State Legislature has just decreed that all horse meat must hereafter be sold on the uppity-up. Dealers must display the fact that it is horse meat with signs on which the letters must be at least one foot tall. Restaurants which serve horse meat also must print on their menus in green, the legend: "Horse meat sold here" in type 1 inch in altitude.

Ticket Sale For Midnight Cigaret Show Takes Spurt

dios. Music will be provided by the Greystone orchestra. A patriotic short picture newsreel and comedy will be donated by the Warner Brothers Theaters who are also providing the theater for the show. Harold McCuen is in charge of the show.

Four large donations, jar collections and the ticket sales brought the drive for 1,000,000 cigarets for the fighting men overseas, sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary and News-Journal, to $1,555. This will buy 622,000 cigarets and is nearly $1,000 short of the $2,500 goal. Cigarets are purchased at five cents a pack.

Donations include $25 given by the Legion auxiliary, $25 given by Louis Bromigield, $5 by the Daughters of Union Veterans, and $100 by the Westinghouse binocular department.

Latest jar collections netted more than $200 and would have been larger but for the theft of a jar at Bun's restaurant containing nearly $40, drive leaders said.

Let's help our farmer neighbors with their hauling problems

AMERICA'S farmers have the tremendous responsibility of raising more food this Summer than ever before in the nation's history.

Farm manpower is scarce. Every hour of every farmer's time is vital to victory. Let's help conserve it.

Don't keep any farmer waiting
Owners of stores, operators of markets, warehouses, elevators, terminals and processing plants, can aid substantially in the success of the "Food for Victory" program by expediting the loading and unloading of farm products.

Every farmer is an essential home front soldier. Don't keep him waiting. He has a long way to go and no time to waste.

Studebaker dealers are co-operating
Studebaker dealers go out of their way to help obtain parts for all makes of trucks.

They co-operate further by handling special repair jobs for farmers as fast as possible.

Many Studebaker dealers have special facilities for locating used trucks, that have been idle or in part-time use, for sale to farmers.

Keep your car and truck up to par
All trucks and cars must be kept in good shape to safeguard the nation's vital transportation life lines. And that's especially important this Summer.

Drop in for regular inspections. Studebaker dealers' mechanics are Essential Transportation Workers who can spot and correct truck or car trouble before it becomes serious.

Ask for free copy of Studebaker's valuable, new, 48-page book, "Care and Maintenance of the Farm Truck"—or write Studebaker Truck Division, Dept. N, South Bend, Indiana.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

hen I'll be seeing you all in minutes," Dicky assured us e left the room.

y father turned to me as the closed.

Did Philip say anything about affair that I ought to know?" asked.

told him in detail what Philip asked about Stephen Red-, and the impresario's assur- that he would adhere strict- o his promise to my father. n I told him of my visit to the itzen apartment, that Olina ld be at my apartment at 7 ock in the morning, inconspic- sly dressed and carrying the ll Galdstone bag.

ast, I told him of Olga's wish ; she and Philip accompany ia to the bank, remaining in cab while Olina went inside, then going on to the hotel re they would take inconspic- s places in the lobby.

'nconspicuous!" my father ped. "About as inconspicuous King George and Queen Eliz- h of England walking down h avenue in state robes with vns on their heads! What did tell her?"

That you were the one who t decide about that," I told , and the taut lines of his face xed.

That gives me a little time," said. "But I must go over and le it after a while. I can't e Olga thinking and planning it it. The disappointment ld be too great. I suppose, that, I might better get it with. If Richard gets back re I do, keep him here."

e rose and went out of the door with a great deal more briskness than when he had entered it. Katharine's eyes followed him thoughtfully.

"He has the greatest resiliency of any older person I know," she said. "He was near exhaustion when he came in here a few minutes ago, and look at him now!" Her eyes returned to mine with steady assurance, and I knew that she was trying to ease the fear for my father's health which is always with me in these later years. But there was truth in that look, also, which told me that she was sincere in her words about his resiliency, and I relaxed in my chair, giving her a grateful look. Then we both sat silent until Dicky and my father returned together.

"The up elevator spilled me off at the same time Dad got off the down one," Dicky explained. "But we didn't tell each other anything. We waited for feminine listeners —or at least I did."

"So did I," my father said smiling, and as Dicky pulled out a chair for him, and he sank into it with a relaxed air, I guessed that his errand to the Veritzen apartment had been satisfactory.

"Let's hear yours first, Richard," my father said, and my husband's answer was swift and short.

"Halloran will be at that hotel room at eighteen," he said, "with all necessary equipment."

"Good!" said my father. Then he turned to me.

"When you reach your room, you will be met by a woman of the hotel staff who will fit you out with a uniform. I gave her your measurements when I was down there. She will give you her name and number, when Halloran has finished working on you, pick up your telephone and ask for her.

She will return, provide you with necessary implements, carpet sweeper, and the rest, give you a little drill so you won't look amateurish, and take you up to the 17th floor. If Ruth Hayes is already in the hotel, the woman will let you know which room. There probably will be a "Do not disturb" sign on the door. If there isn't, tap lightly, as a maid does, open the door slightly, and ask if she wishes her room done. From then on, you will have to use your own judgment and resourcefulness. Use your eyes, also, to look around the room and in the closet, if you can manage it."

"I'll do my best," I told him.

"And your best is very good, indeed," he said, giving me an affectionate smile. Then he leaned back in his chair again.

"I had a little difficulty making Philip Veritzen see how impractical it was for him and Olga to form a royal escort for Olina tomorrow," he said a bit grimly.

Mrs. J. C. White Speaks On India At Guild Meet

Mrs. J. Campbell White gave a talk on life in India at a meeting of the Grace guild of First Methodist church Monday at the home of Mrs. Mayme McConaughey, 147 North Mulberry street.

Rev. and Mrs. White spent ten years in India and while there Rev. White was secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. White said that India has rich resources but they never have been developed. For 2,500 years India has observed castes and as long as these exist independence and democracy are impossible, she said.

Devotions for the evening were conducted by Mrs. Roy Beck. She read scripture verses from the 121st and 122nd Psalms and also read a story entitled "Friends From the Attic" by Roberta White.

Mrs. R. E. Uhl, guild president, presided over the business session at which time plans for a guild picnic to be held Aug. 9 were made. The picnic will be at the James Pugh cabin.

During the program Mrs. C. E. Reese accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Porterfield, sang "God Cares," by Ward Stevens, and "O, Saviour of the World," by Dudley Buck. Luncheon was served by the hostess and the associates, Mrs. A. G. Stash, Mrs. L. Perry, Mrs. Rupp and Mrs. R. O. Richards.

The group will not have a meeting in July.

M. T. And R. Club Has Kid Party

Dressed in clothing which they would have worn in their younger days, the Mansfield Tire Girls' club had a kid party and white elephant sale Monday night at the North Lake park.

Following the routine business session conducted by Mrs. Larry Whisler, white elephants were auctioned off.

Costume prize for the party was won by Miss Barbara McDowell. During the evening the girls enjoyed playing kid games. Winners were Miss Betty Peedrick, Mrs. Ralph Forbes, and Mrs. C. K. Dye.

Hostesses for the party were Miss Barbara Schwartz, Mrs. Robert Burns, and Mrs. Robert Botzer. The hostesses for the July 26 meeting will be Mrs. Harry Colbow, Mrs. John Robinson, Miss Helen Hartnett, and Miss Naomi McGuire.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, June 30.

A particularly lively and eventful day, on which plans and projects cleverly developed and promoted may have a safe and enduring quality, of long range benefit to the affairs and fortunes. There may be change, and travel, wth agents as well as superiors or elders, the latter particularly friendly and cooperative. While the artistic and intellectual talents may be well stimulated, business and well-established projects should also thrive under properly organized and regulated codes of operation. Sign agreements with precaution.

Those whose birthday it is may work for a year of enduring results by applying versatility, much talent and fine faculties to stimulate static conditions into new action as well as to launch new projects or ideas into thriving and enduring channels. This will assure the substantial and friendly cooperation of elders or superiors needed to put over propositions of scope and solid worth. Change, travel, agents and some degree of flexibility may be required, but sign all agreements with caution. Talents may lie along literary, artistic, musical or professional lines, but business and commonplace pursuits may also flourish. Romance, social and domestic affairs give happiness.

A child born on this day may have great versatility, with literary, artistic and musical skill, as well as sound business or professional abilities. Assistance may be not amiss in curbing restive or erratic moods, or whims or excesses born of a strangely magnetic personality or attractiveness.

FAIR or FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK — If Whirlaway was a human, instead of a horse, his retirement would be a front page smash story. No Cobb, Ruth, Dempsey, Hornsby or Louis accomplished more than the terribly game stretch-running thoroughbred with the long tail. None in the realm of sports provided more thrills. Anybody who ever saw him go will remember him. In these modern days he was the tops—maybe not the all-time tops, but the best we've seen when it came down to that winning move toward the payoff wire.

In announcing yesterday that Whirly would be retired to the Calumet farm, near Lexington, Ky., owner Warren Wright said that in his great horse's two losing starts this year he proved to be far off previous form and he wanted to get Whirly into retirement to prevent a breakdown.

Whirley's record was 32 wins, 15 seconds and nine thirds in 60 starts, leaving him unplaced only four times as he broke the all-time money-winning record with a total of $561,161.50.

The line forms to the right for any and all that think they can top him soon.

Gunder Haegg undoubtedly is without guilt in the use of his name in testimonials back in Sweden, but he is a very lucky young gent to be able to retain his amateur standing.

If he ran for America instead of Sweden he would be washed up, or he would have to sue the offenders using his name to establish his lack of guilt.

It seems that in Sweden any shop-keeper can use a photo or the name of a celebrity in an advertisement without permission, whereas in this country a similar incident could lead to a damage suit.

Hence, somebody has inserted Haegg's picture or signature into an ad for rye bread, someone else has used him to plug wrist watches and still another has built up his advertising for clothing with Haegg as the come-on.

Haegg personally denies having had anything to do with the ads. He says he was not asked for the use of his name, but admits there is nothing he can do about it under Swedish law.

The holder of seven world championships and recent conqueror of Greg Rice at 5,000 meters is being utilized to pull customers for others and without getting a cent for it.

"Regardless of circumstances an American amateur athlete would be automatically suspended under similar circumstances," said Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A.A.U.

"If the athlete insisted he had not been paid for the use of his name or had not given permission to the offender to use his name, he would be urged to sue and establish his innocence."

Then he would be reinstated. Otherwise he would be washed up. All Haegg can do is hope that everybody believes him when he says he had nothing to do with the ads, and every one will believe him for the simple reason that he has never been off the line, unlike so many of his predecessors in the amateur racket.

Lake Nine Ties For Loop Lead

Rallies To Beat Friendlies In Junior Parks League Race.

Maple Lake, North Lake Juniors and Empire Steel teams chalked up victories in the Junior Parks softball league yesterday at Johns Park.

North Lake came from behind to edge Paul's Friendly Store, 14 to 12, and move into a first place tie with Prospect park team, which was rained out.

Paul's scored six runs in the first inning and added one in the second and two in the third to pile up a 9 to 4 advanage. But the winners went on a seven-run spree in the fourth frame to go ahead for keeps.

Biggest surprise of the day was registered in the Maple Lake-Johns park tilt, with the Maples trimming Johns 10 to 2.

Johns collected only four hits of Maple Lake Pitcher Regula.

Empire Steel scored six times in the seventh inning to trim Johns Park Juniors, 8 to 6. Ryder, Johns and Reynolds, Empire, connected for home runs in this tussle.

Whirly's Injury Forces His Retirement From Race Career

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Whirlaway, the little horse with the big tail and the blinding stretch drive that made him the biggest money-maker in turf history, has run his last race.

Because of his failure to recover properly from injuries received last winter, the chestnut colt will be retired to stud at Lexington, Ky., in about 10 days, owner Warren Wright announced last night.

Wright said the little picture horse who piled up the staggering total of $561,161 in less than four years' racing had failed to show expected improvement from injuries suffered in training at New Orleans, where he stepped into a hole and kicked himself badly.

"We probably could bring him back into shape," Wright said, "but his trainer, Ben Jones, and I believe that he does not deserve to go through that punishment. He has contributed more than his share to racing and deserves his rest."

Wright, owner of the Calumet farm at Lexington, had announced last January that the brilliant son of Blenheim II and Dustwhirl would be retired at the end of the 1943 racing season.

The little colt left the Calumet farm to conquer the racing world in 1940. In 1941, his biggest season, Whirly won the Kentucky Derby in the record time of 2:02 2-5 and followed that victory with eight consecutive triumphs, including the Preakness and Belmont stakes to become the fifth horse to win the triple crown.

Tennis Tramps Have Troubles

Travel Difficulties Stop Net Experts.

DENVER — (INS) — The boys with the ice cream pants—the "tennis bums" have become one of the few worthwhile sports casualties of the war, according to dapper Ken Napier, tennis instructor at the Denver Country club.

Wartime travel curtailments have put a crimp in the activities of the handful of experts who dominated play in smaller cities and towns. Thus tennis is becoming more and more a localized proposition with the accent on home town talent, which said Napier, "is probably a good thing for the game."

Instead of the weekly tournament circuit so well known in the pre-Pearl Harbor days—a circuit that wound through the entire country and was monopolized by "amateur professionals"—the trend now leans toward active participation instead of a sideline relaxation.

Napier, who himself is awaiting a call to duty from Uncle Samuel, remarked: "Tennis probably is being played more extensively now than ever before." One reason is the new facilities at camps, posts and stations of the armed forces.

"I have found splendid new courts at several army camps, and found they were continually used. Of course, the Army Air Forces have officially recommended tennis as one of the better sports for development of alertness, quickness and all-around co-ordination."

Napier said he looked for the kids who bat the re-claimed rubber balls around the city park courts to keep tennis alive.

"The youngsters are the ones that will keep the game going during the war; the youngsters and the girls and women. And surely we should encourage the development of the boys and girls—kids who can use tennis both as an outlet for physical emotions and the co-ordination of physical features.

"Also tournament tennis must look to women and the youngsters for participants," Napier said. "The girls will play tournament tennis, and some right promising youngsters will keep interest up. For instance the Falkenburg brothers, Tom and Bob, and Budge Patty are the best among the kid players.

"Among the girls, Louise Brough looks like the national champ this year with Pauline Betz and Doris Hart crowding her close," Napier predicted.

Patty Tops Field In Tourney

Credits Boxing Training For Her Return To Fine Form.

(By United Press)

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. — Patty Berg, auspiciously launched on a comeback after 18 months of enforced idleness, said today that the rigorous routine of a fighter training for a championship bout was responsible for her return to golfing brilliance.

Patty, who swept to the peak of feminine play and then turned professional, began her comeback yesterday by shooting a par 76 at the Glen Oaks Country club to win medal honors in the qualifying round of the 14th annual women's western golf championship.

The current tournament is the first competitive test for the likeable Minneapolis red-head since she was injured seriously in a Texas automobile accident Dec. 8, 1941.

Patty matched par on both nines as she put together a 37-39 for her aggregate. This total was good enough to lead the field of 111 entrants by a two-stroke margin.

"Last winter I didn't have the strength to drive a golf ball 100 yards," Patty said. "I was visiting in the South and Andy Mortimer, manager of the Mobile (Ala.) Country club urged me to go to Tommy Littleton, who runs a gymnasium in Mobile. Littleton started me on the same routine a boxer follows. I rode a bike, did bending exercises, pulled weight springs, and then topped it off by punching a boxing bag for about 10 minutes daily."

Bag punching, she said, "enabled me to regain my sense of timing. Without that work I couldn't possibly have brought my golf game back under control so soon."

Patty, always the perfectionist, still isn't satisfied. After finishing her round she went out on the course for a lengthy practice session to bring her game to still a sharper edge.

Patty opens her play in the match rounds today by meeting Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, Mo., a veteran campaigner who twice won this event.

Catherine Fox, 18, Glen Ridge, N. J., and Ann Casey, Mason City, Ia., were closest to Miss Berg in the qualifier with 78's. Miss Fox drew Eilene Stulb of Augsta, Ga., as her opening opponent and Miss Casey faces Kay Byrne of Rye, N. Y., who qualified with an 86.

HAEGG CLEARED OF COMMERCIALISM CHARGE

STOCKHOLM —(U.P.)— The amateur status of Gunder Haegg, Swedish distance star now competing in the United States, was free of any taint of commercialism today.

Some question of Haegg's simon-pure standing had been raised following a report that he had accepted money for use of his photograph in newspaper advertisements by investigation by athletic authorities disclosed that he had not been paid "a single cent" by the advertisers.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Gunder Haegg's status as an amateur athlete remains "positively unquestioned here," Secretary-Treasurer Dan Ferris of the national A. A. U., sponsor of the Swedish distance runner's tour, said today.

Indians, Brewers Maintain Pace

(By United Press)

The league-leading Indianapolis Indians, continuing their efforts to stake off the tenacious Milwaukee Brewers, pounded out a one-sided victory over the hapless Toledo Mudhens last night.

The Brewers, not to be outdone, staged a three-run, eighth-inning rally to shade Minneapolis, 5 to 4. The margin between the two teams remained two games.

The Indians, scoring all their runs in the early innings, coasted to an 8 to 1 victory behind the seven-hit pitching of Texler. Milwaukee, outhit 13 safeties to nine, bunched its hits off the Millers' Wilf Lefebre to win the hard way.

At St. Paul, the Kansas City Blues also concentrated their power in the late innings, tallying three times in the eighth to win, 8 to 5, over the Saints.

Majors Do Stuff for War Funds Tomorrow

Colorful Spectacles Added to Baseball Bill To Bring in Half Million For Service Men

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Baseball goes to war tomorrow—and it's East against West in the opening of a drive to pile $500,000 or more into the coffers of various war relief agencies.

The National league plays three doubleheaders and a night game in the East while the American circuit stages two twin bills and a pair of games under the lights in the West. The sectional situation will be reversed on a second day, July 28, with proceeds of the annual July 13 all-star game tossed in for good measure.

Each league is determined to outdo the other in attempting to top the $506,830 raised for this cause in 1942. The aim is identical, but both leagues are shooting for the honor of contributing the most and the result promises to be a cross-country medicine show that would delight Phineas T. Barnum.

The day's program:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

WASHINGTON AT CHICAGO, two games: Lieut. Ted Lyons, former White Sox pitcher, will lead a marine detachment drill and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station band will perform.

PHILADELPHIA AT ST. LOUIS, night game: The Lambert Field Flyers and Jefferson Barracks Reception Center teams play a preliminary game.

BOSTON AT DETROIT, two games: headlined by the O'Neill-Cronin match race, followed by inter-club field events such as sprinting, base running, accurate and long-distance throwing and fungo hitting. Winners to receive $25 war bonds. (No added starters accepted.)

New York at Cleveland, night game: A pre-game parade of service men and women.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS AT NEW YORK, two games: Madeline Carroll and Frank Sinatra lead a massing of United Nations colors followed by field events in which the Giants turn boys-for-a-day and challenge the St. Louis Swifties.

CINCINNATI AT BROOKLYN, two games: Dixie Walker, the golden voice of baseball (Branch Rickey hopes!), sings a solo over the public address system; Al Schacht, clown prince of baseball, performs, and Durocher's Dandies meet the Red Riot squad in field events.

CHICAGO AT BOSTON, two games: Navy, WAAC and WAVE drill teams exhibit, an army band will perform, and field events.

PITTSBURGH AT PHILADELPHIA, night game: Bill Cox, the Philadelphia magician, hasn't revealed his plans but associates say they are as amazing as the reversal in the fortunes of the former futile Phillies. If it's half as good, the Phillies should make the National league a walkaway in the dollar division.

On with the show!

Reds Lose to Bucs, 7 to 1

BROOKLYN—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds rolled in here today prepared to battle the Brooklyn Dodgers a doubleheader tomorrow.

The Reds are not too well sent, however, with their two loudest offensive guns, Little Lonnie Frey and Big Frank McCormick, on the sidelines because of injuries.

Last night the Redlegs played a one night stand at Pittsburgh and came out on the short end of a 7 to 1 score.

Sewell displayed his recently discovered "hump-back" slow ball and had the Reds sending pop flies or infield rollers.

Led by Bob Elliott, who hit a homer, the Bucs registered three runs in the first off Bucky Walters. They went that one better in the second and got four more, with Sewell helping his own cause by smashing a triple with two mates aboard sending Walters to the showers.

The Reds got their marker in the second. Eric Tipton singled, got to second when Elliott fumbled Eddie Miller's grounder, went to third on Ray Mueller's walk, and came home on Walter's long fly.

RANDALL SEASON STARTS

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A $5,000 preview of the $40,000 Hambletonian—the Kentucky derby of the trotting and pacing game—is displayed at the neighboring North Randall oval today as the 1943 Grand Circuit season opens with a 23-day meeting.

Puzzled Fendrick Finds No Takers For Baseball Program

By WALLY DAVIS

Al Fendrick, Madison high football coach, now acting as recreation director of the city parks' summer playground program is a little puzzled—and disappointed.

When Al took over the job of giving the city's youth a summer recreation program, one of his principal aims was to establish a six or eight-team baseball loop for children from 10 to 14.

Now the thing that has Al puzzled is that the kids just don't want to play baseball. "We have plenty of equipment to operate a league," Fendrick says, "but we can't seem to get the kids interested."

Fendrick reports that softball has been very popular. "Softball seems to have crowded baseball out of the picture. I can't understand it. In past years, the kids have went for baseball in a big way, but this summer softball is the thing."

Fendrick reports that boxing has been a popular sport on the three playgrounds —at Liberty, Prospect and Johns parks. "Those kids sure love to slug it out. And 90-degree weather doesn't stop them one bit."

The players of the Commercial baseball league aren't too happy about the condition of the baseball diamonds at the Fairground and Liberty park. The outfield grass at the Fairground Sunday was fully one foot high. And the Liberty park diamond isn't exactly top rate either. These Commercial loop baseballers are trying their best to keep the national game alive in Mansfield. It seems that they should have better playing accommodations

Allies Bag U-Boat a Day, British Official Reveals

14 DESTROYED IN TWO WEEKS, CANADA TOLD

M'Donald Also Indicates Early Opening of New War Front on Europe's Soil.

OTTAWA—(AP)—Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner to Canada, said today at least 14 enemy submarines had been sunk in the last two weeks and predicted that the Allied assault on Europe would start very soon.

"We have had a dead submarine served up for breakfast every day" for the past fortnight, MacDonald said.

(His statement was added evidence of Allied ascendency in the critical battle of the Atlantic, which Prime Minister Churchill said recently the Allies were winning. Recent reports from London have said submarines have been sunk at a rate of better than one a day for the past two months, a rate faster than the German ability to replace them.)

MacDonald told a press conference that the Allies "obviously are approaching another great crisis of the war."

He said there might be "comparatively small" assaults on Germany and German occupied territory, which should not be regarded immediately as the opening of a second front.

The commissioner said the Allied anti-submarine efforts had been so successful in recent months that the tables had been turned completely on Axis U-boats in the North Atlantic. He said this condition was a necessary prelude to Allied assault on Europe. Another was the complete conquest of North Africa with its corrolary shortening of the sea route to the Middle East, he said.

MacDonald said pleas for a second front were natural and expectable, but the decision was made not to act prematurely or until all reasonable efforts had been completed to make the assault succeed.

"Now preparations are well along and it is unlikely that we will have to wait very long," the commissioner said.

The whole world is keyed up to a state of expectancy, he added, warning it would be unwise but perhaps natural to accept any combined action against the European continent as the opening of the drive for a second front.

It is entirely possible, MacDonald explained, that a number of attacks might occur before the moment of the real assault upon the enemy or enemy-occupied territory would come.

MacDonald attributed success in the anti-submarine war to improved and increased air protection, more cargo ships and escort vessels to convoy them, and to inventions aiding in locating the U-boats.

Saying he would not attach too much importance to reports of rebellion among German submarine crews, MacDonald declared it was known that officers and crews recently had not been showing the courage and skill that once was noticeable.

DUST TREATING PROGRAM OPENS

City Begins To Apply New Material To Unimproved Thoroughfares.

Dust treating of Cline and Massa avenues and Wood street with a new type of material was scheduled to begin today.

One truckload of the asphalt base material, known as MC-1, will be spread as an experiment, and if it proves an efficient anti-dust agency, it will be used on all unpaved streets in the city.

Mayor W. J. Locke said Longview avenue and other streets in the north and west sides of the city will be treated after the three thoroughfares in the southwest section are coated.

Motorists will be asked to stay off the oiled streets for at least 48 hours to permit the material to soak into the surface. It is sticky if used for traffic immediately after it is applied.

Unable to obtain road oil because of war-time restrictions, the county has coated most of its roads with calcium chloride to keep the dust down. County Engineer Howard Sword said. Only Millsboro road remained to be treated today.

BLAMES HEAT

Health Chief Says Food Not To Blame For Illness.

After investigating cause of the sickness of nearly 20 children at Friendly House Hidden Hollow camp, Sunday, Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, said today the illness was due to heat exhaustion.

He said a combination of the heat, play, swimming and a heavy meal combined to produce the nausea thought at first to be food poisoning.

The youngsters were all feeling fine and in the swing of the camp program today after medical care Sunday evening and a prescribed rest yesterday, Russell Gimbel, camp director said today.

New Voter Forms For Armed Forces Causes Confusion

Announcement today by Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel that new absent voters' ballots for those in the armed forces had been compiled, caused consternation today at the Richland county board of elections.

Although the office here has not yet been officially notified of the change, a press release said an attorney general's ruling invalidates the method of registration and issuance of the current ballots for the reason that it is contrary to the laws of the state.

The present forms will be replaced by larger cards. The increase in size of the registration form does not add to the efficiency of the local office as new filing cases may be needed to file them, board attaches pointed out.

During the past year only 152 applied for absent voter's ballots and of that number 95 voted.

Stephan To Hang As Traitor Before Dawn On Friday

DETROIT.—(AP)—Sometime before dawn next Friday, barring a presidential reprieve, German-born Max Stephan, convicted traitor, will be hanged in the courtyard of the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich.

Stephan, who aided the flight of a Nazi flier who escaped from a Canadian prison camp in April, 1942, has exhausted his avenues of appeal in the courts. Three times the United States supreme court has refused to review his case.

Workmen already are constructing the gallows which will be set up at Milan. Tentative plans today called for the execution to be early enough so all evidences of the hanging can be removed before the start of the regular prison day at 6 a. m.

150 REGISTER FOR DAY CAMP

More than 150 Girl Scouts will attend scout day camp at Averill's woods from July 6 to July 22, scout officials said today.

Although registrations for the camp were closed once they were reopened following repeated requests and a new unit has been added to the original camp set-up.

Mrs. Harry Nelson and Mrs. Edward Becker will be in charge of the new unit which makes a total of six units in the camp. Each Tuesday and Thursday for three weeks the scouts will take part in a program of sports, crafts, and outdoor cooking.

POSTERS URGING LABOR AID FOR FARMERS TO GO UP SOON

Posters calling on Mansfield workers to help Richland county farmers harvest their crops and explaining the emergency of the farm labor situation will soon be placed in local factories and stores, Chamber of Commerce officials announced today.

The posters which set forth the plan as by farmers, union leaders and Chamber of Commerce heads were approved by the publicity and speakers committees of the chamber agricultural committee at a meeting yesterday.

Workers are being asked to register with the county agriculture extension agent in the courthouse if they are interested in helping in the emergency farm program. They will be paid hourly rates or given their pay in farm commodities according to the method they choose, Reese Mills, agriculture chairman said.

The committees also learned that registration cards are now being printed and will soon be available for distribution.

Rev. G. E. Swoyer and C. J. Anderson, members of the subcommittees, were appointed to work out a method of a series of announcements about the farm program to be made in the local churches.

Youths ranging in age from 9 to 14 appeared today in probate court before Judge Stuart Cramer on charges of stealing and breaking and entering.

COUNT ON DEFENSE

COUNTING the number of tricks which the declarer seems to have in sight can be the key to your defensive play on many occasions. If you see that letting a certain card go by, without covering it, is likely to give him the one doubtful trick he needs to make his contract, then by all means cover it. If he also has the other card or cards which will be promoted by this means into the next in rank, then you couldn't do anything about it anyway, whereas if your partner has that card or cards, your covering may thwart the declarer's entire plan.

West's opening lead here was obvious. Certainly he wouldn't lead away from either of his major kings into suits bid by the enemy, nor into the supported diamonds, so his club 5 was soundly chosen. South let East take two tricks in the suit and used his A on the third. With one trick in, plus five available in diamonds and two more with the major aces, he had to pick up one more somewhere. Trying for it, he led the spade Q, and the crisis of the deal was at hand.

West studied a bit, guessed that South must also have the J in order to have led the Q, and decided to wait for the J before covering. So he played the 2, and the Q won. Five diamonds and two aces then gave South his game.

Why couldn't West have soliloquized thus, when the spade Q was led: "South already has one trick, five diamonds look certain, making six, and he surely must have the heart A, so that it and the spade A will make eight tricks; if South also gets a trick with the spade Q, he is home; of course, if he has the spade J, he is home anyway; my only chance, however, is to find the spade J in my partner's hand, so I will cover."

If West had done that, the contract would have been beaten positively.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer, West. Neither side vulnerable.)

After South's 1-Heart, North's 1-No Trump and South's 2 Spades on this deal, what are North's best and worst calls among 3-Spades, 3-Hearts and 3-Clubs, and why?

COUNTY TO PLAY VITAL ROLE IN POST-WAR WORK

Engineers of All Counties Act To Serve as Coordinators of Public Works.

Richland county may play a vital part in the post-war planning project if resolutions passed by county engineers at a Ohio planning conference in Columbus last week, are carried through.

Representatives of more than half the 88 counties of the state met to discuss a preliminary program for post-war employment, with Howard C. Sword, Richland county engineer in attendance from here.

Following presentation of surveys of each county the group went on record to serve as volunteer public works coordinators to meet with city and county officials to plan the post-war service.

Engineers agreed all financial aid should be in the form of a direct grant to the counties to be used as necessary. Discussion also included the type of post-war program. It was suggested that in counties where there was not a sufficient number of contractors to handle a project that a modified form of WPA be used, but where the works' program could be handled, they recommended a PWA project with only local help hired.

A more "elastic" program for routine maintenance was suggested at the conference with a matching of county money with federal funds.

"The slack in employment could be handled three ways," said Sword. "first, by the building trades; second by the industries, which will consist of the manufacture of civil commodities and third, by the projects through the county engineers' offices."

GIVES UP SELF

Trucker, Wanted on Charge of Forgery, Surrenders.

A 22-year-old Mansfield truck driver, sought by police for more than two weeks on a forgery charge, gave himself up yesterday at the county jail after walking in and telling deputy sheriffs: "I understand there's a warrant out for me."

The driver, who allegedly abandoned a Norwalk Truck Lines company truck in Fremont and disappeared with six company checks totaling $280, is Roy Raymond Rush, 22, of 183 East Fourth street. He is in the city jail.

Police said Rush had been employed by the firm only five days when he quit his job and disappeared. Some of the checks were cashed in Fremont and others in Toledo, officers said.

PLANS TO NAME DEFENSE CHIEF

Mayor To Name Industrial Plant Protection Head on OCD Order.

Acting at the request of the state civilian defense council, Mayor W. J. Locke as Mansfield OCD chairman said today he would appoint an industrial plant protection chief for the city.

It will be the duty of the protection chief to check plants during black-out tests and to recommend them for exemption from participation in future tests. Plants which show they can black out their lights effectively will be eligible for exemption if they are on war production and apply to the state defense council for permission to continue operations during black-out tests.

The Mansfield defense council at a meeting late yesterday officially accepted Madison township into the city's home defense setup. Consent of the Madison township trustees is needed now to make the merger final, Mayor Locke said.

By coming into the Mansfield civilian defense system, the township works with the city during blackout tests and air raid wardens and other OCD workers become eligible to receive helmets and equipment with the city wardens, fire watchers and auxiliary police and firemen.

THEATERS

Private Ladd Now.

It's Pvt. Alan Ladd, United States Army, now. Hollywood's quick-on-the-trigger ace, who is currently co-starred with Loretta Young and William Bendix in "China," now at the Ohio, entered the army immediately upon completion of the picture. Ladd and his pal Bendix open a two-man war against the Japs in "China" with Ladd, of course, playing the leading role. Miss Young is seen as an American school teacher in China who is forced to flee from the Nips. The picture gives a vivid display of China's long and hard war against the Japs.

Ladies Day.

RKO Radio's baseball story, "Ladies Day," starring Lupe Velez, Eddie Albert, Patsy Kelly, Max Baer and Jerome Cowan, opens Wednesday at the Madison. The picture revolves around the woes of a temperamental pitcher whose romances get in the way of his accuracy. Wacky Walters is the star pitcher of the Sox, and Manager Hannigan is driven to despair every time Wacky gets within hearing distance of a pretty girl. "Aerial Gunner," with Chester Morris, Richard Arlen and Jimmy Lydon, is the Madison co-attraction.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Care of Early Potatoes In the Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released by Central Press Ass'n.)

As soon as the vines of the early potatoes in the Victory garden begin to die the soil can be worked up around the plants in order to hold them erect and protect the tubers from the scorching sun.

Premature wilting and dying of the potato plant, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, is caused by Fusarium wilt. This disease cannot be cured and must be guarded against by means of seed selection, treating seed, and a three to five-year rotation planting plan. When preparing seed potatoes a prime safety factor is to discard all tubers showing discolorations. Fusarium wilt seems to be most severe during dry, hot summers. In dry years, therefore, the crop should be well watered if possible.

The use of a straw mulch with early potatoes is particularly desirable in hot, dry climates or in dry seasons. The mulch can be put on as soon as the potatoes are up.

been trying to reinforce or supply that harried base.

The navy, however, merely gave this report on submarine action:

SUNK—A destroyer, a mine layer, a large transport, three medium sizes cargo vessels, a small cargo vessel and a small schooner.

DAMAGED—One large transport and two medium-sized cargo vessels.

At Munda, on New Georgia island in the Solomons, American airmen struck twice Saturday. Results of the first raid by army Liberator bombers were not observed. But the bombers hitting the second time that day blasted holes in the airfield runway, possibly damaging some grounded enemy planes.

The dive-torpedo bomber team scored again at Vila on Kolombangara island. There they pockmarked the airfield.

In other raids, Liberators dropped heavy bombs on Kahili, in the Buin area on Bougainville island, while Liberators battered Ballale island, an enemy supply base in the Shortland area.

Telephone Lines Take Place of Tom-Toms

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, June 21— (Delayed)—(AP)—The telephone has replaced the native tom-tom as the speediest means of communication in New Guinea, and the boys who did the replacement job received the praise of generals today.

At the nearest New Guinea equivalent of a banquet, the signal battalion construction company which built the army's network of telephone and telegraph lines on this island received the official commendation of Lieut. General George C. Kinney, commander of the Fifth air force.

The general's commendation praised officers and enlisted men for "splendid work accomplished under extremely adverse conditions from October, 1942, to March, 1943, in construction and installation of 95 miles of telephone and telegraph lines in New Guinea."

Citations of valuable service went to these enlisted men from Ohio: Tech. Sgt. George R. Alexander, jr., Westchester; Cpl. Oral S. Barnaby, Middletown, and Cpl. Evert F. Giauque, Killbuck, near Millersburg.

Hangchow Retaken By Chinese, Report

NEW YORK —(INS)— The important Chinese port of Hangchow, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, has been "recaptured by the Chinese," the British radio said this morning in a German-language broadcast recorded by CBS.

Hangchow had been occupied by the Japanese since December, 1937. The port is the capital of the coastal province of Chekiang.

RAF Smashes Jap Troops In Burma

NEW DELHI —(INS)— Royal Air Force Wellington bombers yesterday cut a wide swath across Japanese troop concentrations in the Akyab area of northwest Burma when they loosed "a good weight" of bombs on the enemy positions, the India command announced today.

Bomb bursts were observed throughout the target area, the communique said.

Extensive raids by medium and light bombers over wide areas of occupied Burma also were announced. These air forces damaged at least 50 Jap sampans.

All of the participating RAF planes returned safely to base.

Buzzness Bad For Business

BUSINESS DROPPED to an all-time low at this Ogden, Utah, store when a swarm of bees decided to camp in the awning over the main entrance. The bees flew in and the customers flew out. Not stopping to bee-moan the situation, young Robert Saimond placed the cardboard box on the awning. The bees moved in and Bob made a bee-line with the box for a vacant lot. Timid shoppers returned and soon business was humming (beg pardon!) again. Photo shows young Saimond waiting with patient resignation while the bees make up their minds, if any, about the cardboard box.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

LONDON—(By Wireless)—Life on this advanced airplane base, which is what England is, has about it now a sense of security that was missing two years ago. This changed spirit is based on expectation of victory, which was not so prevalent in the summer of 1941.

Two years ago England had just come out of one blitz, and was expecting a worse one with the longer nights of autumn. Many expected that gas would be used. When I was here in 1941 one high official diagrammed to me exactly how he thought the Germans would attempt their invasion. If they followed the best military tactics which he could devise, he was quite certain they would hold a temporary bridgehead and that England would fight a desperate land battle for her survival.

Clapper

Now no such conversation is ever heard. Invasion is a word that now applies solely to the continent—not to England. Arguments now usually center on whether Germany can be knocked out by air. Regardless of tablecloth strategists and of persuasive enthusiasm of both British and American airmen, both governments are preparing ground assaults to follow up air softening.

News of the commotion which bombing is causing in Germany is printed here in black type. Strange things are being said over the German radio to the German people, and it is difficult to interpret them as anything except alarm over the increasing devastation of bombing. Yet we must remember that Germany is a huge country. The Ruhr is the most important industrial section, but there are others. Also there has been industrial dispersal, so that bombers will have to reach deeper into Germany, which will be done during the longer nights.

Hardheaded Britishers probably don't expect Germany to crack psychologically until defeat is clearly certain to them. Nevertheless, if Italy can be knocked out that is bound to have a discouraging effect in Germany. Furthermore, shuttle bombing may become more intense. Bombers will be able more easily to reach Vienna and industrial areas in other parts of Germany now most distant from Britain.

The Britisher is taking all of this with the feeling that England is rapidly coming out on top. People are making money. You hear stories of families all in war factories making a total income equivalent to $150 or more weekly—which was unheard of among English workingmen.

Hotels are packed. You have to make dinner reservations early in the morning. Theaters are sold out weeks ahead. Night clubs are packed everywhere. American officers and soldiers on leave, with pockets crammed with pounds, add to the crowds; but the luxury hotels are crowded with Britishers and rich refugees. The shortages in Britain are in food, clothing, gasoline and other articles, not money. The service is poor, food worse, but prices are high. An inferior meal costs a pound at a regular hotel, where the gouge comes through service charges.

The difference I note between Britain and America is that the war, with all its inconveniences, is taken much more in stride here than in America. Of course they have been at it longer here—they went through the blitz, through fear of imminent invasion, so that deliverance from the extreme danger of two years ago is bound to make everything else seem minor by comparison.

Another difference, that many account for the contrasting behavior, is that here people are set to continue Prime Minister Churchill in office indefinitely whereas in America the political opposition is using every means under one administration to prepare for next year's elections. War irritations make handy campaign fodder for politicians to feed to voters.

FINDS WAR JOBS PAY MORE THAN GENERALS GET

Michigan Lawmaker Reports Janitors Receive More Than Army Captain.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Reporting on a 44-day inspection trip, Rep. Engel (R.), Mich., today advised the house that there are workers in war plants "with little or no experience" making as much as army generals, and janitors and elevator operators drawing 33 per cent more pay than captains.

Engel, a member of the house subcommittee on military appropriations who made a one-man investigation of high costs in 47 war industries, informed the membership that in one plant he found an 18-year-old girl, fresh from a job as "ribbon clerk in Kresge's dime store," getting $3,380, or more than the base pay of a major.

The Michigan member said he discovered "machine gun assemblers" who drew as much as $8,740 a year, adding that "soldiers and sailors at Bataan, Pearl Harbor, Tunisia and Bizerte all have to learn not only to take down and assemble these same machine guns blindfolded, but to shoot them at pay as little as $50 a month."

"And when they come back," Engel continued, "they will have to pay an income tax the rest of their lives to repay the money we borrowed so these factory machine gun assemblers can be paid from $4,700 to $8,740 a year.

"Why, the base pay of Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell is only $8,500 a year and he is in command of the entire supply system of the army from 16-inch guns down to pistols."

The congressman said that the plants he visited, which included General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, and General Electric, had total payrolls last year of $2,316,041,747.

"The total number of employes in these plants aggregated 850,522," Engel declared. "Their average annual earnings for 1942 was $2,725. The total man-hours worked for the year was 1,706,484,931. The average amount paid for each hour actually worked was $1.35.

At the General Motors Fisher tank plant, welders train four to six weeks and make $67 for a 48-hour week. At the Diesel plant at Detroit, women 18 years old and up earn as high as $269.72 a month on jobs that I am told took them two or three weeks to learn.

"I found the highest paid labor at Colts Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, where out of 25 machine gun assemblers, five earned from $8,000 to $8,741, seven earned from $7,000 to $8,000; seven more earned from $6,000 to $7,000; and only three of the 25 earned less than $5,000, working an average of 47.9 hours a week."

"Of 44 machine gun fitters, two were paid $8,000 to $8,240; five between $7,000 and $8,000; ten between $6,000 and $7,000; and out of the 44, only nine made less than $5,000."

OPA READY TO START TRIMMING VEGETABLE COST

Will Put Specific Ceilings on Cabbage, Lettuce; 50 Per Cent Roll-Back Due.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The Office of Price Administration is today expected to make the first move of its long-contemplated campaign to roll back fresh vegetable prices 25 to 50 per cent by instituting specific dollars-and-cents retail prices on fresh lettuce and cabbage.

The pegging of prices on the two vegetables marks OPA's first attempt to regulate permanently the retail costs of highly perishable, difficult-to-control fresh vegetables.

OPA will, it was learned, follow the rollback of lettuce and cabbage prices "as soon as possible" with similar orders pushing back the cost of snap beans, peas, carrots, tomatoes and spinach, all considered "essential cost of living items."

At the same time, it was reported that the price administration will act next week to cut back and control the prices of another perishable commodity—salt water fish.

OPA has had a temporary system controlling prices of "essential" fresh vegetables, but has had no regulation covering fresh fish prices. It has recently been charged that both the prices of fresh vegetables and of fresh fish have "gotten out of hand."

While vegetable prices vary from community to community and no accurate nation-wide figures revealing the rise in vegetable prices could be obtained, it was stated that the price of fish has risen "several hundred per cent" since the mid-1930s.

The schemes to control fish and vegetable prices are results of months of research. The complicated economic structure of the two industries as well as the extreme perishability of the foods have made price control hard, it was said.

In this joint attack on the spiraling prices of essential foods, OPA will not employ the highly controversial subsidy plan, but will merely roll back the prices by ordering cuts in the present price structure and by setting specific prices for each each item.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—President Roosevelt was right in disapproving the Smith-Conally bill but wrong in his reasons for doing so.

The bill, now a law, passed over his veto quickly and obviously in anger, has only to recommend it that it is the first challenge by the United States senate to the outrageous conduct of unions in peace or war and the dangerous paternal relationship of the nation's government to an utterly irresponsible sub-government which has been given the power to levy taxes against millions of individual citizens, collect duties on interstate commerce, to engage, literally, in highway robbery and extortions and to pronounce the economic death penalty on workers who defy its rule.

Pegler

This is the first time that the senate has enacted any law to curb the power of the unions since the New Deal began. The house had passed two bills but they were killed in the senate at the president's request, without debate on the floor.

Nevertheless, the Smith-Conally law is a bad and slovenly law because it does not go to the root of the evil arising from uncontrolled unionism mostly under the direction of tyrants including many vicious criminals who should be in prison and many political enemies of the free American form of government.

The law is intended as an emergency war measure and there is no doubt that the emergency does call for some strict legal prohibition against strikes enforced by penalties against those who promote strikes and those who by violence or other intimidation prevent loyal citizens from doing their war work. But the Smith-Conally law cannot achieve that purpose for it sets up a method by which strikes in wartime may be made legal.

President Roosevelt's own attitude toward lawlessness of union conduct in time of peace is plainly indicated not only by the record and the attitude of his government prior to the attack on Pearl Harbor but by a phrase in his veto message.

"It is clearly the will of the American people that for the duration of the war, all labor disputes be settled by orderly procedures, established by law."

There you have the whole problem.

Why should such disputes be settled by orderly procedures, established by law, only in this time of war? Why shouldn't unions be required, along with the rest of the community, to follow orderly, legal procedure at all times. This passage amounts to an open admission from the president of the United States that in times of peace unions have not done so. Not that the world has any need of such an admission from any quarter to confirm a notorious fact, and of his belief that when peace comes they should again be given permission to settle their disputes by disorderly methods not forbidden by law.

The labor or union policy of the national government has been consistently hostile to all American employers as though they were citizens of an inferior grade not entitled to the full rights of citizenship, although the employer group must exist in any capitalistic nation, and has actively and positively favored union rulers who were notoriously evil even by the admission of their colleagues in unionism. The Smith-Connally law does nothing to correct that lopsided condition and its provision against political contributions, limited to the duration of the war, is a weak restriction which betrays the confused and irresolute mind of congress in dealing with the great menace of bad unionsim. That restriction originally was intended to apply in peace as well as in war but it got mixed up in the debate on the Connally bill and was trimmed down to duration.

TIGHTENS UP ON TIRE PROGRAM

Chief Jeffers Calls For 'Strict Adherence' To Rules For Conserving Rubber.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers today called for "strict adherence" during the next few months to tire conservation regulations and the office of price administration put force to his words by sharply reducing the number of low-mileage passenger car owners eligible for used and recapped tires.

Jeffers advised OPA that only 500,000 used and recapped tires will be available for rationing in July, a reduction of 300,000 from June.

Beginning July 1, and probably for a period of 90 days while supplies of used tires are being put into serviceable condition, the eligibility of drivers with mileage rations of 240 miles or less a month will be determined by these standards:

In the eastern gasoline shortage area, where an "A" book is good for 90 miles, drivers who hold only an "A" book cannot get replacements. They can still have their present tires recapped without getting rationing certificates.

Outside the shortage area, where the "A" book provides 240 miles a month, the applicant must show he used his car for essential purposes.

Present regulations make all low-mileage drivers eligible for used or recapped tires. Regulations for drivers with monthly mileage rations exceeding 240 miles were not changed.

Jeffers said that while synthetic rubber now is being produced, there will be some delay in fabricating it into passenger car tires because of the shortage of facilities, equipment and manpower.

Mrs. Cynthia Heifner, Mansfield, whose son, Howard, died Jan. 30 in a sea battle in the Southwest Pacific, heard the story of the battle yesterday from a sailor who was on the same ship with her son. He is Dominick Pappielli of Jersey City, N. J., who stopped to see Mrs. Heifner while he was en route back to the Pacific coast from his home. He is scheduled to return to duty on the same ship when it is repaired, he said. He knew of Mrs. Heifner's residence here through her son and decided to tell her how her son died as soon as he got back to the United States. Pappielli was unable to give all the details of the battle, due to navy restrictions. The ship was badly damaged in the conflict but reached port on its own power.

Tops in requests made to the Mansfield ration board arrived today with an A book renewal application. "Enclosed please find $1 for an introductory jar of "Cal-Par" and your reducing booklet," the printed clipping read. Since the application was incorrectly filled out and had to be returned, ration clerks could not resist adding a note in answer to the request. "We are sorry we cannot send you the "Cal-Par" as the dollar was not in the letter. We suggest that you try working on the ration board for a few weeks and feel sure you will achieve the desired results," workers answered the lady desirous of regaining her girlish figure.

When the Richland County Victory Garden committee set up its contest for gardeners, it didn't provide prizes for broccoli, but so many Mansfielders are growing the vegetable this summer that the committee added it to the list and yesterday awarded a prize for the first headed plant to be submitted. One dollar in war stamps and a blue ribbon went to Mrs. Bessie M. Rubino, 154½ Blymyer avenue. She said she planted her broccoli April 1.

CHRYSLER MEN GO BACK TO JOBS

2,200 Return to War Industry After One-Day Strike; Action Awaited.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—Production returned to normal at Chrysler Corporation's Highland Park plants today when 2,200 day shift workers reported at full strength after staging a one-day unauthorized strike.

A company spokesman reported "only normal absenteeism" as the strikers returned to production of guns, tanks, airplanes and army trucks, ending Detroit's first major stoppage since passage of the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill.

The spokesman said the men, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), returned to work under an agreement to arbitrate grievances growing out of the suspension of a union shop steward charged by management with having "countermanded" company orders.

There still was no definite word as to what action, if any, would be taken against the strikers for violating anti-strike law terms providing a 30-day "cooling-off" period before strikes can become effective.

U. S. Attorney John C. Lehr and District FBI Chief John S. Bugas said they were "keeping an eye on the situation" but that they still had not received orders from Washington "regarding our specific duties in connection with the new law."

WALLACE OPENS NEW QUARREL IN FDR'S 'FAMILY'

harges Jesse Jones Blocks War Effort of BEW By 'Obstructionism.'

our exercise of the powers given as to carry out wartime assignments. Some of these obstructionist tactics have been minor and annoying and some have been of major consequence in his job of waging total war."

In his statement, Wallace dissed the stockpiling of various rategic materials. He said conress had made funds available r such a purpose as far back as 39 and that in the summer of 40 the RFC was given funds for ockpiling.

"From the summer of 1940 un- well past December 7, 1941," allace said, "the Reconstruction nance Corporation failed disally, so far as the import field as concerned, to build the stockles authorized and directed by congress nearly eighteen onths before Pearl Harbor."

Wallace referred to testimony of st December before the senate nking committee in which he id Milo Perkins, executive dictor of BEW, "gave evidence of e extent to which he (Jones) id delayed the foreign rubber ogram and cited specifically his alling in the gathering of wild bber in South America and the anting of rubber plantations in frica and in the planting of crypstegia for natural rubber in the aribbean."

He said he was making today's ditional statement because "the fort to misrepresent the facts ncerning the Board of Economic arfare has continued."

"During 1941 Mr. Jones may ave felt that this would be a hort war in which we wouldn't ecome involved: in any event e did not buy quinine during hat period in adequate amounts or government stockpiles; dur- ig 1942 he acted as though the ar might be over by 1944, if e can take his attitude toard this quinine project as a riterion. . . .

Wallace said there had been lays in RFC purchases of such rategic materials as beryl ore, stor seeds, cobalt, corundum, lm oil, flax fiber, jute, sisal, ntalite, zirconium and fats and s. On fats and oils, the vice esident commented:

"For all practical purposes, wever, virtually nothing was ne to build a government stocke of fats and oils even after arl Harbor, when the Japs were nquering the Far East from ich we had been getting treendous supplies."

Since February, 1943, Wallace id BEW had been negotiating d drafting all imported mater- s contracts, getting them exeted by sellers, then sending em to the RFC subsidiaries for ecution. This procedure, he d, was established to eliminate lay and confusion.

"Those purposes have been in rge measure accomplished Wallace said," but only in the ace of an exasperating rear uard action by reconstruction nance corporation officials who re still fighting the war with eacetime red tape, corporate chnicalities, and with what eems to us to be an unnecesary action. x x x

"All this, and I want to emasize it, is bureaucracy at its rst: It is utterly inexcusable a nation at war."

To end what he termed "this angling," Wallace recommend- that funds be appropriated dictly for BEW to buy and develop imported strategic materials. said BEW officials "should be e of this hamstringing burucracy and backdoor complain- of Mr. Jones and his emyes."

Wallace's blunt criticism of nes followed shortly after a astic clash between Chester C. vis and President Roosevelt as e latter accepted Davis's resigtion as food administrator and med Judge Marvin Jones of xas to succeed him.

Jones took over his duties today the third war-time food admintor in less than seven months the Roosevelt administration, letting Davis go, thus evidenced w determination to put stabiltion of prices over all other nsiderations in the nation's od program.

His appointment to replace Da-, who himself was drafted in urch to settle differences which d developed among administran officials, was taken to mean ure food programs would be to patterns designed to prole food at present or lower ces.

This change in food bosses came er Davis had offered his resation at some near future e with the explanation he did agree with the policy of putg consumer prices above all ier considerations, particularly en it involved the use of subies and when consumers have, he said, excess spending power.

Davis also said that while he s responsible for meeting food eds other persons were exercis- authority over broad policies d issuing orders affecting his ponsibility.

"There were a large number participants in the formation these policies, you know," he id, but he declined to name em.

He likewise declined to comnt on Mr. Roosevelt's letter in ich the president, after defendthe subsidy program, said "it uld be unfair to you to insist t you remain in your position en you feel, all things considd, you cannot wholeheartedly port a program to hold down cost of living."

Perhaps the development that influenced Davis most strongly to step aside was the inauguration, without his knowledge or approval, of the price roll back and subsidy program on meats, butter and coffee—a program which has encountered determined opposition by farm state members in congress.

Aside from his belief that such subsidies will be ineffective in controlling inflation unless accompanied by taxes and savings to draw off excess earnings, Davis objected, aides said, because he feared they would have a discouraging effect upon production of affected commodities.

gauge double-barrelled gun in the front yard. One shell in it had been fired.

The shotgun charge crashed through the glass and screen in the door, struck Barr in the arm, glanced off a wall, and shattered a lamp shade.

Awakened by the charge and the sound of breaking glass, Glenn Rodocker, a neighbor, said he saw two men fighting in the yard at the Barr home and Mrs. Barr was trying to separate them. He said he then saw one of the men strike the other with the gun. Fletcher was on the front porch at the Barr home when police arrived.

Mrs. Barr took her husband to the hospital where it was said his arm probably could be saved.

Filing of a charge against Fletcher was withheld today pending completion of the investigation by police.

UPSETS VERDICT

Appeals Court Orders New Trial For Haupt Aids.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals reversed today the conviction of six Chicagoans on charges of treason and remanded their cases to the district court for a second trial.

Defendants were Hans Haupt, Otto Wergin and Walter Froehling, who had been sentenced to death in the electric chair, and their wives, Mrs. Erna Haupt, Mrs. Kate Wergin and Mrs. Lucille Froehling, who had each been sentenced to 25 years imprisonment.

They were convicted last Nov. 14, accused of harboring and aiding Herbert Haupt, son of the Haupts and one of the eight Nazi saboteurs brought to the United States in German submarines, last spring. The opinion reversing their convictions was unanimous.

SHORTS WOW NATIVES

SAN FRANCISCO —(U.P.)— The Pacific islands occupied by American troops are fast becoming populated by native tribes wearing colored shorts of such brilliant coloring that tropical birds hide their heads for shame, Brig. Gen. William E. Kepner reports. Next to cheap phony jewelry, the soldiers have found that colored shorts have the highest bartering value in the islands. For just one pair of highly-inflamed shorts, natives will trade a canoe, dig fox holes, carry the wounded or perform any task a soldier wants done.

most of the time. After that they will travel extensively, Gibson said.

"I'm also going to devote more time to my hobbies of stamp collecting and gardening," he said.

Gibson was 18 years old when he went to work at the bank as a collector and messenger on Aug 1, 1895.

"I had completed three years of high school," he recalled. "And since there was little prospect of my getting to college I determined to go to work at once."

Gibson held the job as collector for about two years. Since that time he has been a bookkeeper, teller, and, for the past 15 years, cashier.

"There were only three of us in the bank when I came here," he said. "C. F. Ackerman, who is now president, and F. H. Marquis, now vice president and trust officer. Together we have seen the bank grow until it employs about 30 persons. The bank's assets at that time were $400,000. Today they are between 15 and 16 millions."

One of the first things Gibson plans to do after leaving the bank is to go on a fishing trip in Maine. He will leave Aug. 15 and return Oct. 5.

Commenting on the cashier's resignation, Ackerman said: "Obviously, Mr. Gibson's work here has been most satisfactory. There is nothing I could say that would speak more eloquently than his 48 years' of service with the bank."

Ackerman added that no successor has been named and probably won't be until the bank has its annual meeting in January.

Gibson will be 66 next month. His son-in-law, Eakin, is a partner in the brokerage firm of Hornblower and Weeks, Cleveland.

quieting events which he had taken as omens of disaster.

Before taking off he discovered he had put on his parachute harness under his jacket. Then he found his watch had stopped. Jackson crossed his fingers.

Eventually Jackson and his crew of nine were over the target. As usual enemy fighter planes appeared. Gunner Sergeant Robert Blair of Kew Gardens, N. Y., shot down one of them as the Fortress unloaded its bombs. Everything looked rosy again.

Then, as the big bomber roared homeward, the gas supply began to run low and Jackson began wondering how—not if—he would escape death when the ship crashed in the channel.

But Lady Luck was riding in Jackson's ship. As he made his final combat landing, lights on the dashboard flashed red. The fuel tanks were all empty—but Jackson and his crew had "made it."

Cup And Glass Shortages Hit South Africans

PRETORIA—(U.P.)—Reports from all sections of the Union of South Africa indicate that crockery and glass shortages are becoming serious, particularly for elbow-benders.

Some Johannesburg hotels have already suspended "room-service" because they cannot spare the dishes. In Durban, one hotel is forced to serve beer in champagne glasses, while most of the other hotels in town are using jam tins or inviting customers to drink from the bottle.

In East London cups and saucers, even when they are cracked, are bringing high prices at auction sales. At one sale, cups without saucers, brought about $6 85 a dozen and 384 cups were disposed of at this price. The record price for a single cup and saucer—and not a Wedgwood model, either—was $1.10. For a tea-drinking country these prices are a catastrophe.

In Pretoria a customer was served beer in a glass flower vase.

raid showed "one hit and two damaging misses on the cruiser, and picture interpreters also reported many hits on the oil tanks," the official report said. "Also hit by numerous bombs were the railroad lines leading to the marshalling yards and tracks east of the city, a bridge, sheds, a storage depot or two." Hits were also scored near an iron foundry and torpedo factory.

Nearly 100 Fortresses raided Leghorn, 160 miles north of Rome, on May 28 in their longer combat flight from North African bases up to that time.

Medium bombers ranging over Sardinia encountered heavy enemy opposition both from the ground and in the air.

(New attacks upon Reggio Calabria and Messina also were reported by the Italian high command.)

Airfields in the Olbia-Venafiorita district in northeast Sardinia were attacked by medium bombers. B-25 Mitchells, escorted by P-38 Lightnings, dropped explosives on the barracks, administrative buildings, hangars and dispersal areas in the Alghero-Fertilia district on the northwest coast.

In other forays, B-26 Marauders with an escort of Lightnings and P-40 Warhawks, attacked airfields at Milis and Decimomannu to the south.

The Wellington night raiders dumped their load on the San Giovanni marshalling yards.

A dozen enemy aircraft were destroyed in the day's operations, the war bulletin said, and two Allied planes were listed as missing.

(The Italian communique reported that casualties at Leghorn included 175 killed and 300 injured, while 14 were killed and 52 injured at Reggio Calabria and four killed and four injured at Messina.

Rome asserted that 19 Allied planes were shot down yesterday, seven of them at Leghorn.

German bombers were said to have attacked Pantelleria harbor with "good success" but there was no Allied confirmation of an attack there.

Proclaim Emergency In Iraq, Says Rome

LONDON—(AP)—The Rome radio asserted today that a state of emergency had been proclaimed throughout Iraq.

The report, heard in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, was without confirmation and gave no reason for the alleged action.

The agency asserted this order, together with the Turkish-Syrian border closing, indicated the Anglo-Saxons in the near future will launch a military action from the Lavant."

Berlin also found a possible explanation, however, in "an intensified war of nerves" on the part of the Allies.

Chester Davis Makes Himself Clear

RESIGNATION of Chester C. Davis as war food administrator could scarcely have been unexpected by those who have been giving even casual attention to what has been going on in Washington.

Mr. Davis, it appears, committed the unpardonable error of thinking for himself, without realizing, until after he had taken office March 25, that whatever "authority" had been bestowed upon him in the field of food production and distribution was limited to carrying out policies which he was to have no voice in formulating.

This was plainly stated by Mr. Davis in his letter of resignation. He said: "I find that I have assumed a public responsibility while the authority, not only over a broad food policy, but day-to-day actions is being exercised elsewhere."

Quite naturally, being a sound thinker and a man of considerable capability, Mr. Davis has been out of accord with the program of "broad general subsidies" to which President Roosevelt has become "sold," and it would be hypocritical for him to continue in an office which would require unquestioned obedience to orders rather than offering opportunity for expression of personal views, based on judgment and experience.

President Roosevelt, in accepting Mr. Davis' resignation, said: "No one appreciates more than I do your ability in dealing with agricultural matters. But I am sure that you will agree with me that effective teamwork is absolutely necessary."

Yes, "teamwork is absolutely necessary." It is regrettable that President Roosevelt stands so firmly in the way of making it impossible for really capable members of the "team" to play their positions effectively.

Payroll Deductions Due To Start

STARTING THURSDAY—which, as you have probably noticed, will be July 1—your income tax payments will get onto that "pay-as-you-go" basis, about which so much has been said in recent months.

Whatever you earn, either as wages or salary, after July 1, will be subject to a 20 per cent payroll deduction—except for an exemption of $12 a week for single persons; $24 if married, and $6 additional for each dependent.

This deduction is turned over to the government by employers and is applied to payment of 1943 income tax, with provision for refund of overpayment—if any—or later collection of the difference in the event deductions do not equal the total tax bill for the year.

For those whose income has been materially increased as a result of more lucrative war-time employment, the 20 per cent deduction is not likely to cause serious inconvenience, but for millions of others who are attempting to stretch a fixed income to meet the requirements of inflated living costs, abnormally high charges for required services, and various other items of individual and family expense, an apparent reduction of one-fifth in income is likely to necessitate considerable readjustment of household budgets.

With two quarterly payments already made on 1942 income and the 20 per cent deduction starting almost immediately after the June 15 quarterly payment, income tax requirements for this year may seem to be heavier than for last year, but this will not actually be the case as the "forgiveness" part of 1942 taxes has not yet become noticeable to those who paid March and June quarterly installments of last year's tax bill as required.

Those Gas Ration Applications

WHILE the application form for renewal of "A" gasoline ration books is not extremely complicated, it does require rather careful reading and careful attention in filling out various spaces and leaving others blank.

Information from the rationing board that approximately ten per cent of the applications being received are either incorrect or incomplete is not surprising—in fact an even higher percentage of unacceptable applications might have been expected.

Requirement for duplication of serial numbers of tires and "identification of vehicle", as required in Part A and Part B of the application, and instructions to fill in "all spaces in heavy border" may confuse some applicants, as the "heavy border" sections are not readily distinguishable from portions to be left blank.

It is suggested that any persons who are in doubt as to the correct way to fill out one of these applications, and those who are unable to write legibly, ask assistance from a friend, neighbor, or high school student, so as to avoid delay in getting a new ration book.

Captured Jap Sub Coming Here

AN ECHO of Pearl Harbor comes to Mansfield Friday afternoon when residents of this community will be given opportunity to inspect one of the two-man submarines used by the Japs in making that sneak attack.

Interest and curiosity combine in creating a desire to see one of these instruments of modern warfare and to thus become better informed regarding construction and methods of operation of these deadly underseas craft.

Admission to the exhibit is gained by purchase of a war bond at any time between June 21 and July 2, with tickets obtainable by bond buyers at the postoffice or any bank.

There'll be a number of things associated with this war that you'll want to see, so that they may be made a part of your post-war recollections. Friday, from 5 to 10 p. m., at Central park, will be the time and place to see a Japanese submarine. There'll be music too—so buy a bond and join the crowd.

Nothing having been heard from that other White House tenant, it may be assumed that Harry Hopkins is rather quietly in favor of a fourth term.

Japs Are Playing Waiting Game, Objectives Have Been Achieved

Editor's Note—While Dewitt Mackenzie is on vacation, this column is being written by Max Hill, former chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Tokyo.)

By MAX HILL

AN ENGLISHMAN who is in a position to speak with authority wrote a special article for the Associated Press in which he said:

"The people (in Britain) know they can expect no joyride to Berlin or Tokyo."

The author is W. J. Haley, who is joint managing editor of the Manchester Guardian and Evening News, and a director of Press Association of Great Britain and of Reuters.

Haley has just returned to England from an extensive trip through the South Pacific, and the menace that is Japan no longer is a myth to him.

Let us hope it was from knowledge and not sentiment that he said:

"Churchill spoke for the nation when he pledged that Tokyo must go the way of Berlin and Rome."

It is time, also, that America awakened to the critical situation in the Pacific. The status of the war in that area can be summarized in a few words, and I only hope the readers of this column won't be too shocked by the definitely ominous factors.

Our government is aware of the danger, as are the responsible heads of our armed forces. They know of the long and bitter and bloody battles which face us before the Japanese bow in defeat, as they must in the end.

But a spirit of complacency seems to permeate the attitude of the average American, especially those who live in the East and mid-West.

I have been asked many times why I didn't say so while I was in Tokyo—instead of now—if Japan was so strong. Well, this is the reason. Japan didn't fool us. She wasn't strong. We were weak, and with typical American confidence we looked on Japan as a push-over.

NOW Japan is strong. She had a carefully planned program of attack. In 90 days she seized a rich and vast empire, and since that time she has done nothing but prepare for the inevitable attack from the United Nations to regain it.

Any attempt to wrest this territory from her will be costly in both men and materials. Japan knows that. Now she can sit back and wait for a stalemate. She has accomplished her objectives in this war, even more than Hitler.

This is not to be taken as criticism of our strategy in the war. But this much is obvious. We played into the hands of the Japanese once by believing the lifeblood of that empire had been drained away by the long China affair.

Now we say, with the same confidence, that once we have Hitler out of the way we will turn on Japan and—just as easy as blowing out a candle—we will take her into camp.

Nothing fits better into the Japanese program than our policy of devoting most of our attention to the Atlantic. It gives Japan time to consolidate and exploit all of her vast oriental plunder.

Let us suppose that after Hitler is defeated that the militarists ostensibly are discredited, that a supposedly mild cabinet of businessmen takes over.

They could—and would—say blandly that they were the responsible, respectable faction in Japan, the people we could deal with in safety.

Let us not be duped by any such ruse, and the maneuver is not only likely but probable. It would mean another war in the Pacific within 20 years.

The Japanese have yet to be defeated in any war. They must be defeated this time, invaded and their militarism discredited at home as well as abroad before we can claim victory in the Pacific.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, June 29, 1923.

Material was being received for start of work on constructing Park avenue east subway at Pennsylvania railroad.

Flemings Falls property of 11 acres was purchased at sheriff's sale by W. Lee Cotter.

Mrs. C. E. McBride was able to return home from Ann Arbor, Mich., where she sustained injuries six weeks before.

Miss Virginia Voegele left to spend the summer in an Adirondack mountain camp.

Dr. John S. Hattery left for Boston to attend Harvard graduate medical school during July and August.

Miss Dorothy F. Losh and Glen M. Arbaugh were married at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. A. M. Hughes.

Harley M. Temple and family moved to Cleveland where he was to manage a photographis studio.

TODAY IN HISTORY

William J. Mayo, elder of the two brother surgeons who founded the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., was born at La Sueur, Minn., on June 29, 1861.

Dave Boone Says:

I STILL don't quite see how that anti-strike law is going to make the stopping of strikes just a wrist motion. Under it Uncle Sam can slam a coal strike leader or striker, for instance, into jail, but where's there a jail with coal deposits in it?

And anyhow it's come too late to put Lewis in the hoosegow, unless he insists on it by some future action. John might do just that. He's a bear for publicity.

Another thing to remember is that there are some labor racketeers in this country who have been arrested so many times that to be arrested once more, even under government auspices, might not bother 'em. They carry lawyers and bondsmen around with 'em in some cases.

Labor leaders are making a great squawk over the passage of the anti-strike bill, but I don't think the rank and file of labor men are much upset. Organized labor as a whole is doing a swell job and I think it's as anxious to see leaders of the Lewis type slapped down as anybody else is.

* * *

Anyhow, nothing much will happen to the leaders. Unless there's a sharp reversal in the Washington trend it's the operators and owners who will wind up in the brig.

Timely Editorial

Squirrel Business.

The proposal to subsidize vegetable packers to enable them to pay higher wages without correspondingly increasing the market prices of their products comes from the Office of Economic Stabilization.

Well, as Senator Harry F. Byrd says, some people in the country, even some in high places, seem to think we can meet the cost of the war with a painless panacea—a magician's trick. The food subsidy play seems to be a sleight of hand performance, a "now you see it, now you don't" deception.

Subsidize agriculture, subsidize labor, subsidize industry and the farmer and the laborer and the industrialist all get more money—more stage money to pay to the government in higher taxes eventually. That system works like the old revolving squirrel cage outlawed on account of its cruelty to the occupant. He went 'round and 'round until exhausted and got nowhere.—Toledo Blade

Farley Selects Senator Gillette To Block 4th Term for Roosevelt

WASHINGTON—One of the most secretive of all secret luncheons was held on Capitol Hill the other day. Big Jim Farley inspired both the luncheon and the secrecy. Jim warned against the slightest leak to the press, and elaborate precautions were taken to prevent any.

Senate dining room employes were forbidden to reveal the room in which the meeting took place, and not even Ed Halsey, omniscient secretary of the senate, who usually arranges such affairs, knew anything about it.

The list of attending senators was equally guarded and all those present refused to comment on the luncheon.

Here was the reason for the secrecy. At the luncheon Jim Farley and a group of anti-Roosevelt senators launched their campaign to block a fourth term and put forward their own candidate. He is handsome, white-thatched Senator Guy M. Gillette, Democrat, of Iowa.

Farley has had Gillette in mind for some time and had a long talk with Texas Jack Garner about the Iowan's chances.

The luncheon which launched the Gillette campaign was held in the senate rules committee room on the third floor of the Capitol. Besides Farley and Gillette, those present included Senators Walter George of Georgia, chairman of the finance committee, Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the rules committee, Bennett Clark of Missouri, and several others, all veteran foes of the administration.

Blocking 4th Term.

FARLEY did most of the talking. He said that a fourth term for Roosevelt must be blocked "at all costs"—otherwise the kind of democracy we inherited from Washington and Jefferson would be "through" in the U. S. A.

Jim disclosed that surveys of sentiment in various parts of the country had convinced him that most voters were in a rebellious mood against the administration, especially the farm belt. Roosevelt definitely could be stopped at the next convention, he said, if opposition forces at the convention were properly organized.

The time to begin organizing, Farley added, was now.

Senators George, Byrd and other southerners heartily concurred that there was increasing opposition to the president in the south, largely because of the administration's farm policies, Mrs. Roosevelt's racial views, and the administration's support of the anti-poll tax bill.

Because of this, the southern senators agreed that Roosevelt could not count on the solid support of the southern delegations at the next convention.

Farley formally presented Gillette at the luncheon as the man best qualified to upset the fourth term bandwagon at the convention. The former national chairman said he felt assured Gillette could count on some strong "independent" support from the south, as a result of his own surveys and his talk with Garner. The latter, Farley said, wholeheartedly approved of Gillette.

Farley declared that if Gillette could control the Iowa delegation at the convention, running as a favorite son candidate, and make inroads into delegations from other key farm states, like Illinois, Ohio and Michigan, this, plus a split in the south and the New York votes Farley himself will control, would give Gillette a flying start.

The secret pow-wow broke up after two hours with all the anti-New Dealers agreeing with Farley that Gillette, whom Roosevelt attempted to "purge" in 1938, was the white hope against a fourth term. However, no definite program or organizational strategy for launching the Iowa senator on the presidential hustlings was worked out.

Farley and the others agreed to take this up at future meetings.

Capitol Chaff.

STRONG-WILLED Winston Churchill has had some differences with British African hero General Montgomery. "Montgomery," grumbles Churchill, "is indomitable in defense, unconquerable in attack, and insufferable in victory." After state department's Maynard Barnes was made top U. S. representative in West Africa he became very critical of Spanish fascists in Tangier; he protested that Franco and his pals were walking all over the Allies, especially the British. Shortly after Barnes reported, he was demoted. . . . Most carefully guarded targets in all Germany are the synthetic gasoline and synthetic oil works of Blechhammer and Bruex. If they could be knocked out, Germany would be pretty well out of the war. U. S. airmen are itching to get at them. . . . Food Administrator Chester Davis once fired Judge Jerome Frank, Gardner Jackson and others when he claimed they were disloyal to him in their campaign to aid tenant farmers. . . . Now Davis has put himself in the position of being none too loyal to his own chief in the White House by lobbying on Capitol Hill against Roosevelt policies.

Installment Buying.

BUSINESS is usually squawking about government regulation, but here is one case where merchants want it continued after the war. They want to cherish and preserve Regulation W.

This is the regulation requiring heavy down payments on consumer purchases. For example, the down payment on a $200 refrigerator today—if you could get one—would be about $60, compared with three or four dollars before the war.

Wartime purpose of this regulation is to curb buying and thus reduce inflation. But retail merchants like it for other reasons. It saves them bookkeeping expenses, avoids the nuisance of dunning, and provides cash.

That's the view of the merchants, but not of the credit boys. Credit organizations make money from the high interest charges involved in installment buying, and they want to do away with Regulation W as soon as possible.

At a recent meeting of the National Retail Credit Association in St. Louis, William J. Cheney insisted that Regulation W violates the individual's right to make a private contract.

But merchants want to retain "W" as a permanent fixture.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE WOOD PEEWEE

WOOD PEEWEES have their nest beneath the roof of our cottage porch, upon a roughly sawed beam. Five weeks ago we watched the first coarse straws laid along the horizontal two-by-four. Carefully and wonderfully the building progressed; each day the shapely bowl became more habitable.

Material used was wood fibers, closely woven and decorated with bits of moss and metallic, lustrous lichens in symmetrical pattern. I have watched with interest the Baltimore oriole tailor well his house and swing it on an elm bough, or the ruby throated humming bird build her dainty ornamental house upon a willow just above a colony of water touch-me-nots. But the humble peewee is a rival of these other two in artless bird architecture.

That little home above our porch is a miracle of blended colors—smaller ornaments seemingly fitted in below, larger ones about the rim. Perhaps this strange bird artistry makes its effect upon the young when they hatch and grow and begin to glance about and over the sides of their decorated environment.

The peewee's early morning song is compelling and purposeful. Pee wee! Pee wee! In the quivering notes is remarkable concern for the four young birds nesting so near the roof. The father bird on guard upon the highest electric wire, tilts his narrow long tail feathers and grabs any juicy insect that may fly his way. Jealously his quick eye follows every movement of his mate. An overtone of triumph is in his song whenever he sees her capture a worm about the lawn or pursue a lightning bug and overtake it.

It is always a strange delight to watch this feathered mother crush with her beak and ration out some morsel that seems too large for one wee bird. She feeds the most ravenously insistent of her family first. When they are satisfied, the others get their turn. She keeps making the rounds and does not miss a single member.

Today I saw signs of restlessness. One small bird, well feathered, perched upon the edge and looked around. The parents screamed. More food was quickly brought. Tomorrow they may fly into the thick foliage of the plum tree and catch insects for themselves. The lovely nest will be without a tenant.

I shall spray the nest when the birds have gone, to kill mites or lice that might infest the place and torture any other brood of birds that should choose this site.

Some of the Oddest Things Happened To Letters That Were Sent To Ernie Pyle.

NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—Now the time has come to talk about the mail. My mail, I mean. Back in those first months in Africa I didn't get any mail at all. My friends and family were writing all the time, of course, but the letters just never came through. It was terrible to go month after month with no word from home at all.

But now the tide has turned. I am known as the man who gets all the mail. If fewer than six letters a day come in, I start pouting and they have to give me extra rations of jam at supper time.

I'm surprised the army postal system doesn't use its influence to get me kicked out of Africa on the grounds that I'm an impediment to the war effort, and also a nuisance.

YOU FOLKS who read the column have been thoughtful and generous in writing to me. You have written letters by the hundreds, and they have all been grand to read. You have written me in red ink, green ink, by typewriter and by pencil. You have cabled me and you have sent notes by friends coming over. There have been letters from generals' wives, from aircraft workers, from old schoolmates, shipyards presidents, school kids, Pacific heroes, and hundreds of letters from mothers and fathers of soldiers in Africa.

Most of you have written only once, but there have been series of as many as 15 and 20 letters from the same person. One reader, a complete stranger to me, has written me oftener than my own family. I'm on several "buddy" lists of people who write weekly to 50 or 60 overseas soldiers.

Some of you tell me your life histories or experiences in the last war, or what you are having for supper. You've given me remedies for sore hands and advice on how to break a pet dog from being battle-shy.

You've sent me drawings of improvised stoves for pup tents, and you've asked me to call and have dinner with long unseen French aunts in Oran and Algiers.

You've sent Christmas cards and sickroom cards and homemade poems and home-drawn cartoons. You've sent photographs of yourselves, and newspaper clippings by the hundred.

Many of you have written of sending me boxes of cigarets, soap, shaving lotions, books, cookies, nail scissors and sweaters. None of these has ever come, but the mere fact that you sent them is sufficient.

You mustn't send anything more, because in the first place the stuff is likely not to get here, and in the second place there isn't a thing in the world we need that we don't have. That goes for most of the troops, too. We are well provided for, so don't worry about us.

I COULD write a whole column about the unusual addresses you put on your letters. You send my letters to your husband's A. P. O. number, or in care of some soldier I have written about, or to the Stars and Stripes, or in care of General Eisenhower, who wouldn't know me if he saw me.

Sometimes you merely clip my picture out of the column and paste it on an envelope. But most of you address your letters just "Somewhere in Africa," or "On the Tunisian Front." Hundreds of these probably never reach me at all, but other hundreds do.

The ironic thing is that many of these vaguely addressed letters come through faster than correctly addressed ones from personal friends. In tracking me down these letters go through many hands. I've had penciled notes on the outside of envelopes from soldiers I hadn't heard of in years.

And some mystery person keeps printing on letters that come from different parts of the country and at different times, but always in the same hand. My only conclusion is that it must be done by a censor. Of all people!

Many of your letters make the rounds of a dozen units and get to me as much as six months after being sent. Just the other day I got one that was mailed in New York in December. The envelope was so covered with penciled notations that you could hardly find the name.

But what tickled me most was that some wishfully thinking postal clerk had sent it to three different prison camps, trying to locate me. It was all penciled out there on the envelope. One of the notations said, "Nòt at diplimary barracks." If the army is going to make a criminal out of me I do wish they'd learn how to spell "disciplinary" first.
